Little Points Picked Up By Vigilant Reporters.

Down in old Southampton Squire M. F. Pardew was reelected for another six year term. Squire Pardew has served in this office for 22 years and if he lives out his term he will have served 28 years. He is a good Democrat, a Christian gentleman and one who decides cases according to the law and evidence. It pays to have such men of sterling qualities as officers to determine the rights of the people. It was the people's victory.

The election returns show that the Republicans elected everything but one Poor Director and two auditors. J. C. Andrews of Everett was elected over George A. Hillegass for Poor Director, and F. P. Barton and F. O. Reighard over W. Scott Snyder for Auditors. The official count may change some of these results but so far as Andrews is concerned he is the highest one on the ticket for that office and will be the next official. The vote for Commissioner is close and may win with Easter, but Nevins Diehl and T. C. Bradley are sure of election.

Treat Catarrh By Nature's Method

Every Breath of Hyomei Carries Healing Medication Air to the Infected Membrane.

Nearly every one who has catarrh knows how foolish it is to try and cure it with sprays, lotions, and the like. Temporary relief may be given, but a cure seldom comes.

Until recently your physician would probably have said the only way to help catarrh would be to have a change of climate; but now with a simple preparation called Hyomei you can carry a health-giving climate in your vest pocket and by breathing it a few minutes four times a day successfully treat yourself.

The complete Hyomei outfit is inexpensive and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a life time, and if one bottle does not give permanent relief, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained at any time for a trifling sum. It is more economical than all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only treatment known to us that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

T. W. Jordan, Jr., has sold a great many Hyomei outfits and the more he sells the more convinced he is that he is perfectly safe in guaranteeing to refund the money if Hyomei does not relieve.—Ad. Nov 5 & 19

To Make Dandruff Quickly Vanish

No one likes dandruff, but to get rid of it you must do more than wash your hair. The cause of dandruff lies not in the hair, but on the scalp and in the hair roots, and just as twice daily you use a germicidal tooth powder or cream to cleanse your teeth of germs, so you should use Parisian Sage twice daily to drive dandruff from your scalp, prevent its return, protect your hair from falling out and nourish its proper growth. Dandruff makes your hair fall out. Parisian Sage makes Dandruff fall out and your hair stay in.

A delightfully perfumed hair and scalp treatment easily applied at home, very inexpensive and obtainable from F. W. Jordan, Jr., or at any drug or toilet counter. Nov. 5-21

RUBBER PLANT IS ENDLESS CHAIN TO RAISE MONEY

Pottstown Resident Declares National Company Will Not Move Plant There so Long as It Can Be Exploited.

(From Altoona Times, Oct. 12, 1915)

That the National Rubber Company of Pottstown, Williamsburg and wherever Mr. J. G. Feist, promoter, may be at the time, is nothing more than an endless chain proposition by which dollars are extracted from men who enjoy listening to chaps who talk in big figures, is the opinion of a prominent attorney of Pottstown, visiting here this week. The attorney is a member of the Pottstown Chamber of Commerce and is familiar with the workings of the concern, which gives its permanent address at Pottstown, with a temporary residence at Williamsburg, this county.

The visitor declares that while backers of the rubber concern have been telling Williamsburg people that Pottstown citizens have raised money to prevent the plant at Pottstown from being removed elsewhere, he has no knowledge of any movement to raise money or grant concessions to keep the plant there.

"The bankers and financiers appear to have no confidence in the promoter of the enterprise," he said, "and they seem to regard the Pottstown plant as a nucleus for the sale of stock in other parts of the country, and perhaps as a basis or bluff for exploitation and raising of funds elsewhere. The report of the contemplated removal from Pottstown is still being industriously circulated, apparently with the hope of selling some stock there. This, however, is looked upon as a joke by men who have money to invest."

Won't Leave Pottstown

"It is the opinion of quite a number of Pottstown people that this particular enterprise is in no danger of leaving Pottstown," he continued, "so long as outside communities are willing to furnish money to keep it going. And so long as it can be kept going, it will be used as a basis for exploitation in still other communities. When it goes at all it will probably be in the direction that similar enterprises always go."

The Pottstown attorney declared that no doubt Mr. Feist and his fellow promoters have had an enjoyable time on the $14,000 furnished them by the residents of Williamsburg and vicinity, and stated that he has knowledge that Mr. Feist regards his exploit in this community as a fine piece of work.

Since work has been halted on the proposed plant at Williamsburg, and men who invested their meager savings in what has turned out to be nothing except a hole in the ground, it has become known that the engineer employed by Mr. Feist in the supervision of the "building operations" created a stir in the promoters' camp when he demanded a "show-down" and distribution of funds before he withdrew from the field and allowed the money to be paid over to Feist. It is said that the promoter was forced to pay this gentleman $4,000 to get him out of Williamsburg and seal his lips.

Promoter's Note Returned

What is looked upon as a bit of "hush" money was paid one of the investors in the Williamsburg plant, recently, when, following a vigorous kick registered by him, his note for $100 was returned. The note, which was not negotiable, was given in payment of his subscription to stock in the plant which was to make Williamsburg boom as few towns have boomed, and its return it is now believed by residents of the county to have been merely with the intent of forcing other subscribers to believe that they, too, would receive the money they have invested.

The site of the proposed plant is still enclosed by a wire fence, erected by the owner of the ground, and the land owner still carries the key to the lock, placed on the gate at the entrance to the site. Pottstown promoters announce their desire to retain an option on the site, for "future developments," but no one connected with the concern has visited Williamsburg since work on the new building was stopped on August 27.

Instructors to Game Protectors

The open season for game in Pennsylvania is now in full blast, and I call your attention to that provision of the Act of April 21st, 1915, found in Section 8 of said Act, page 95 of the pamphlet containing the Game, Fish and Forestry Laws, and relating to the shipment of game. Herebefore it has been the practice of numerous gunners in this State, especially market hunters, to go into one section of the State, kill perhaps their limit of either birds or animals, box the same, ship them to their homes or elsewhere, then go into another county and repeat, going again into the third county, and sometimes into more counties, in this way violating the law regarding the number of birds or animals that might be killed, and covering their tracks in a way that prevented detection, to the great injury of true sportsmen. Sportsmen of the State conceived the idea of stopping this procedure, and are attempting to do this through the provisions as found in said Section 8.

In the enforcement of this Act, you are to use good judgment, but under no condition are you to permit or authorize the shipment of game of any kind, unless it is properly marked, as required by the Act, and accompanied by the owner of the game.

You will frequently be importuned by sportsmen to permit the shipment of game to a friend or to this point and that point in the State. This permission cannot be granted. The purpose of the Act was to stop just that very condition, and while a hardship may be imposed upon a few in the State, the benefit that will come to the many will far overbalance the slight injury thus imposed.

Where a sportsman starts in good faith with his game, the same being boxed or in his baggage, properly marked, under ordinary conditions we see no reason why a prosecution should be brought, if during the course of travel he became separated from his game and happened to travel upon a separate train or even upon separate days. The intent of the shipment or transfer of game is the question to be considered, and you are not to prosecute in any case of this character, without first consulting this office. The purpose of this provision was to protect and preserve game, and to force would-be violators into a position where they cannot kill game beyond the limit at pleasure. We hope you will inform sportsmen as to the purpose of this Act, when I am sure they will in the great majority of cases be in accord with your regard for this matter.

No discretion in any way is given to this office or to you regarding this matter, and you have no authority to attempt even to authorize shipments contrary to the provisions of this Act. The penalty for violating this Act is exactly what it would be for the killing contrary to law of the bird or animal thus transported. We direct that you at once notify the various railroads, express agents, and postmasters in your section concerning their liability under this Section. Respectfully yours,

Joseph Kalbfus, Secretary, Game Commission.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Interesting Notes From Our Correspondent at National Capital.

Washington, D. C., November 2.—Great Britain's defense of its stoppage of trade between American shippers and traders in the Netherlands and neutral Scandinavian countries, on the ground that goods sent there really are destined for the central belligerent powers, Germany and Austria-Hungary, will not be accepted as satisfactory by the United States. This much was made certain when United States Consul General Skinner, stationed at London, arrived in Washington for a conference with Secretary Lansing.

"It is true said Mr. Skinner, 'that American exports to the Netherlands have increased to a suspicious degree. But this does not mean that England's contention is correct. It means simply that goods to these countries formerly distributed out of Hamburg, Bremen and Antwerp are now all sent to Holland ports. England's defense of its holding up of American goods, therefore, cannot be justified by any general argument that American traders are not acting in good faith.'

Because of Mr. Skinner's activity in presenting the American stand on the blockade, a rumor was current here that he would no longer be satisfactory to the English government. Secretary Lansing, however, denied this, and said that so far as he knew Mr. Skinner would be returned to his post.

Containing the text of important diplomatic correspondence between the United States and the belligerent governments of Europe, the second installment of the United States government's "white" book has been issued by the State Department. The book is to constitute a public record of the position of the United States as a precedent for the future, and the volume reveals to the public a series of charges and countercharges by the belligerents that reflect in difficulties constantly encountered in the delicate task of observing neutrality. Much of the correspondence never before has been made public in text, although press dispatches have covered most of its substance.

Business conditions throughout most of the country improved considerably during September, according to reports from the Federal Reserve agents, just made public by the Federal Reserve board. As a whole the picture of conditions is regarded by officials as the most favorable received by the board in many months. In the Boston, New York, and Philadelphia districts, and the districts of the south and west, the impetus of increasing trade is shown. There was a decrease in idle railroad cars of over 100,000 in September. The unprecedented conditions in the steel trade continue to be a big factor in some parts of the country.

Continuous hearing of the Joint Select Committee of Congress, investigating the fiscal relations between the District of Columbia and the Federal government have brought out the responsibility of the Federal Government for the growth and development of the National Capital, and the obligation to make financial contribution to fulfill this responsibility by contributing a fixed proportion of the total expenses of the District. The committee adjourned over election day to enable its members to go home to vote. Propositions for self-government of the District, representation of it in Congress by a delegate, and the tax burden to be borne by real estate and improvements and other subjects which were mooted about Congress in the course of the four-year agitation which culminated in the creating of the select committee will be thoroughly gone into. It is not expected that a report to Congress until some time after it convenes the first Monday of next month.

Secretary of War Garrison has announced that the national guard of the States and the District of Columbia will be accorded full recognition with the regular army in the Administration's plan for army reorganization to be presented to Congress next month. The policy thus announced for the first time means that in time of war the national guard officers and men will be taken into the regular army intact and accorded the same rank they now hold with the militia. This plan will smooth out the formidable opposition among State militias against the Garrison army reorganization scheme and bring to it the strong support of the national guard organizations of the country.

According to a holding of the Post Office Department, soldiers and sailors interned in a neutral country are not prisoners of war, and such interned men are not entitled to the "privileges of free postage" or the exemption from charges for fees on money orders granted to prisoners of war by The Hague convention of July, 1899. This holding affects the interned Germans at Norfolk and New York, as well as in other neutral countries. Many money orders drawn on neutral countries of Europe have been received at New York for exchange, and issuing postmasters are frequently called on for orders for interned men in other countries.

The German government has been asked to aid in capturing the interned German sailors who escaped from Norfolk two weeks ago, and to return them to the United States. The State and Navy Departments have no information regarding the fugitives.

The biennial display of the Washington Retail Grocers' Protective Association in what is known as the "Food Show" is the most pretentious that Washington has ever witnessed. Amid a fairland of food products, gay booths, dazzling lights, enchanting music, and samples galore, the show was opened. More than 17,000 persons visited the exhibition during the first evening.

Giving Washington, D. C., as the address, the alleged names of twelve individuals who have failed to repay the United States for money advanced to them to bring them out of the war zone in Europe. The list of about 1,500 delinquents in all parts of the country, published by the Treasury Department. Uncle Sam is taking this way to dun these bad debtors, although it is probable that a great many of the names are fictitious and the addresses imaginary residences of such individuals. "No response" and "can't locate" are the annotations against many names in the list. The list includes names and addresses from every State in the Union. The list does not contain the names of individuals who are making even a small effort to pay, or who promise with some degree of sincerity to make payment in the near future.

The Arizona anti-alien labor law, which made it unlawful for any employer of more than five persons to employ less than 80 per cent. qualified electors or citizens of the United States, has been declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. Much attention was attracted to the case because several foreign governments had protested against the law and because of its similarity to the land legislation in California which restricts the ownership of real estate by Japanese.

A license for the marriage of Miss Isabella L. Hagner, former social secretary at the White House to Norman James of Baltimore, Md., has been issued. Miss Hagner resigned her position as social secretary about 2 weeks ago. Miss Benham, the present social secretary, and a close friend of Mrs. Galt, the President's fiancée, was appointed to take up her duties, and the formal announcement of her selection as permanent social secretary was made last Saturday.

By a formal announcement from the White House the marriage of President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt will take place "near the close of December" and it will be private at Mrs. Galt's home here. On good authority it was stated that less than fifty persons will be invited to the Wilson-Galt wedding. An intimate friend states those interested are discussing the wisdom of engraved invitations or simply calling the guests by telephone and inviting them to the wedding. Miss Eleanor Wilson foiled the latter plan on the occasion of her marriage to Secretary of the Treasury, Mr. McAdoo. She wrote personal notes of invitation to out-of-town friends. Thousands of announcement cards will be sent out from the White House immediately after the wedding.

These are the Prizes

The First Prize

Five Second Prizes

Ten Third Prizes

Ten Fourth Prizes

Thirty-four Ninth Prizes

1st Prize
New Perfection
Fireless Cooking
Oil Stove No. 7
will be awarded the writer of that letter, listing the largest number and the most practical uses for kerosene, other than lighting and heating. The value of this stove is $33.00

It has every feature that will in the slightest contribute to better cooking with lessened effort. It combines a four-burner stove, fireless cooker, oven cabinet and warming shelf in one compact, yet roomy, cooking device.

2d Prize
New Perfection
Oil Cook Stove
No. 3

There are five of these handsome substantial three-burner stoves offered as second prizes. They will be given to the writers of the five second longest and best lists of kerosene uses. These stoves sell for $10.75 each, are strongly made, simple to use, economical of kerosene and help you cook better and lessen your work.

3d Prize
Perfection
Smokeless Oil
Heater No. 230

Think of it, ten heaters as third prizes—and they'll make the homes of the ten successful housewives brighter, cosier and warmer during the cold weather months. And all you have to do to get one, is to be one of the writers of the third ten most lengthy lists of practical kerosene uses. These third prizes, beautifully finished in blue, cost $4.85 each at the stores.

4th Prize
Perfection
Smokeless Oil
Heater No. 430

Ten fourth prizes, each costing $4.80, enameled in a tasty blue, and each as good a heater, from the standpoint of service as money can buy. It's not going to take a whole lot of thought to send in sufficient kerosene uses to win one of these prizes, and they do make the home happier, because they stop the complaints of cold and keep the family smiling.

9th Prize
Rayo Lamps

Thirty-four beautiful RAYO LAMPS constitute the eighth group of prizes. They will be awarded just as are the other prizes. These lamps sell for $1.50 each, and no more handsome lamp can be imagined nor can one be bought at any price, that gives a clearer, softer light or one that is as clean to use.

100 Free Prizes for You Women Who Tell Us the Most Uses for KEROSENE

It's past belief how many women, good housewives too, think that kerosene is good only for lighting and heating. But then, of course, there are other hundreds of you who know its uses are almost boundless.

Some tell us they've tried kerosene as a floor polish—and find it splendid—that it will preserve the finish and beauty of a fumed oak set better than the most costly dressing, and, mixed with whiting, with almost no rubbing, will make nickel trimmings glisten. Then, for cleaning the porcelain bath tub, nothing equals kerosene. It leaves it shining snowy white.

What Do You Do With Kerosene?

What are your pet methods for making kerosene work for you? You are probably acquainted with many helpful, practical uses, if you'll only just take a little time and dig them up, out of the store of your household experience.

Write down all you can think of. Send your list to the Contest Department of the Atlantic Refining Company, and you're just as likely as not to be one of the fortunate winners of any one of the 100 valuable prizes pictured in this advertisement.

It's ordinary common sense and not fancy composition that'll win these useful, handsome awards. All we want you to do is just tell us in your own way how you have found kerosene useful around the house.

The letter that lists the greatest number and the most practical uses for kerosene will win the first prize—a $33 New Perfection Oil Cook Stove—a prize well worth getting, for it surely does lighten the drudgery of cooking.

The next best five letters will be judged on the same basis, and for the writers of these there are five New Perfection Oil Cook Stoves (each valued at $10.75) to make work easier in the homes of five enterprising housewives.

In the same way the remainder of the 100 desirable prizes will be awarded. Read the list at the left.

Was there ever a chance to get so much for so little effort—no work, only a little thinking necessary—just write what your housework has taught you, but please use only one side of the paper and be certain your letter reaches us before December 1st, 1915, for on that date this contest positively closes.

Remember, the greater the number of uses you submit and the more practical each is, the more certain is the chance of your securing any one of these hundred splendid prizes.

Don't wait till the last day, but begin making up a list immediately—the longer the list the better your chance.

The Atlantic Refining Company Philadelphia

Besides the illustrated prizes, there are ten fifth and an equal number of sixth, seventh and eighth prizes, all splendid, serviceable Perfection Oil Heaters which your dealer sells for $3.80, $3.70, $3.60 and $3.30, respectively.

JUDICIAL CONTEST

The judicial contest for this county ended in a victory for Thomas F. Bailey for President Judge and J. W. Huff for Associate Judge. This was the couple which we stood for as a combination that would be for the best interests of the taxpayers in bringing our courts up to a standard of efficiency and place them where the people, and a great majority of them too, think that the courts will be conducted in an unbiased business like and economical way and still keep our county, as well as the other two counties, free of the saloon. Mr. Bailey and Mr. Huff, both, are opposed to the saloon and we have so much confidence in both of them that we know they will not grant license to any one and it would be utterly folly for anyone to present applications for license in face of this new court when constituted January next.

Mr. Bailey had a majority of about 450 while Mr. Huff ran off with a majority of about 1,000. Bailey's majority in Huntingdon County is about 800, while Woods carried his own county, Milford, by only 78 votes and lost his home town and home ward to Bailey, a parallel case to our own townsman, John M. Reynolds, when he lost his home ward, his home town and his home county.

One of the advocates of Woods, whose bristles are ruffled up the wrong way since the returns came in, and who so confidently said on Monday that it was all over except the voting, that Woods would carry the county by 1,000 to 1,500, is E. M. Pennell and now since he has been defeated so completely he is running around to the candidates on the Democratic ticket and blaming their defeat on the Chairman, Barkman.

Now, Mr. Pennell is taking a very unmanly and ungentlemanly way of wreaking vengeance. No Democrat in Bedford County can deny that all was done in the chairman's power to get the vote to the polls, and more than that, all was done that could be done to get such men as Pennell to support the ticket, but we couldn't get enough and Pennell likely was one of them that we didn't get.

Besides the Woods money was sent to bring out the Republican ticket and M. W. Corle, a would-be Democrat, and E. M. Pennell, a would-be Progressive, did their best to get Republicans to the polls as well as telling Republicans that they had no right to support Bailey since he was a Democrat. What do the Democrats of Bedford County think of such Democracy? Deliver us from such. Woods, Pennell and Corle defeated the ticket. That's who did it. We know and our friends know and no lame ducks as these, need tell anybody who defeated the ticket.

Deafness Cannot Be Cured

by local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing sound, and when it is entirely closed, deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by Catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by Catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars, free.

Nothing New

This time it has been discovered that the steam engine was known in Egypt as early as the year 200 B. C. The machine in question was a rotary affair and more theoretical than practical. A Greek adaptation of the same idea was used a little later for turning a mill. A steam power engine was not built for centuries.

Straight Lines Reappear In the Box Coat

Pleasing Variety in Sleeves With Indications of a Return to Exaggerated Size

When Does A Cuff Become A Sleeve?

New York, November 3
The wealth of artistic and smart ideas in afternoon and street frocks this season, while fascinating, is somewhat bewildering, too. Of course the chief features are the same, this is out of respect to fashion's dictates, but there are any number of ways that one may vary these details effectively to meet the demands of one's own personality. Fashion shows are becoming as popular with women in general as any smart social event. The dainty mannequins wear the clothes as if to "The Minor Born," and perhaps a bit more gracefully.

The Popularity of the Box Coat

Since the first showing of fall and winter fashions there has been much discussion as to whether the regulation tailored suit with normal waistline, snugly fitted, would dominate; at first it seemed as if it would, but since then there has been a decided frock, and was simple to a degree, but unusually attractive. Another of dark blue serge was made with square cut yoke, back and front, to which the lower portion of the Eton was gathered, forming a soft, full line across the bust, being drawn snugly in at the waist, where it was stitched to a two-inch belt of the serge. The skirt also showed the yoke was embroidered with a chain-stitch design worked out in silver threads at the joining of yoke and lower portion of the skirt. The same embroidery was carried out on the jacket, on collar, fronts and belt.

The Necessary Touch of Fur

One in talking of fashions must speak again and again of fur—it is so absolutely necessary to gown and suit that every imaginable animal that has a furry pelt, is being utilized, and the furriers are reaping wonderful harvests. Among the most popular furs for trimming purposes are beaver, seal, and krummer. The dark blue serge is smartened with a touch of natural gray krummer, and the satin finished broadcloth is enriched by narrow and wide bands of seal or beaver.

The Modish Box Coat

change toward the looser, belted models, unbelted coats with a half suggestion of waistline, or stranger still, no waist at all, a return in short to the box coat.

These box models are now very smart indeed; they appear in tailor-made suits, separate coats and fur coats. Most of the fur coats, in fact, show the box back, even if the front of the coat is belted.

The effect of these unfitted coats is a bit more youthful than the fitted lines, which demand beauty and grace of figure. The French woman appreciates the line that is most becoming to her figure, and in most instances this is the straight line.

Among the new frocks and suits there are, too, boleros and Etons that are really quite charming. These also are becoming to the average figure.

One seen at a recent fashion show was of gold lace, combined with black charmeuse; it was on an afternoon

A Krummer Trimmed Serge

Interesting Skirt Lengths

We have become accustomed to the short street suit and frock; when not carried to the extreme, it is far more satisfactory than a long skirt, especially with the vogue of the very wide skirt. We have become used also to the round length evening frock for dancing, and approve of its comfortable common sense, but the formal dinner frock, with its slinky, pointed train, and its extremely short front, is somewhat disconcerting. One unusually striking model exhibited lately, developed in a wonderful brocade of Bianchini's, was made with one of these extremely short skirts and a long, pointed train; although rich and wonderful, the gown was startling and decidedly bizarre in effect. Much of the grace of the gown is sacrificed with these skirts.

A Variety in Sleeves

There is wide choice in style of sleeve for both house and street costume. The later models show a pronounced use of the sleeve set into the armhole with gathers. At present the vogue is for the moderately large sleeve, with a slight exaggeration of fullness at the elbow and over the hand. The flare is decidedly modish and there is almost no limit to the width of the flare. Slashings, trimmings, contrasting godets, and panels, are details of the new cuffs; and the cuff may be of any length, from the very narrow band cuff to the gauntlet which reaches to the elbow and even above, leaving one to wonder when the cuff begins and the sleeve ends. Do these cuffs and gatherings predict, perhaps, a return to the big sleeves with their inside ruffles and bandings of crinoline which made life so interesting some years ago?

(Conducted by the National Woman's Christian Temperance Union.)

GRIME INVESTIGATION.

Mr. Fletcher Dobyns of Chicago says in a published statement that his investigations as attorney for the city council crime commission have influenced him to go out and fight the saloon as the greatest source of crime in Chicago. He asserts that almost all crimes are committed by abnormal persons, and that in tracing the source of these abnormalities he has found it to be, in a large majority of cases, the liquor evil.

"Before I started my investigations in regard to crime," says Mr. Dobyns, "I was not a total abstainer or an advocate of closing the saloons. But now I believe that alcoholic drinks do more than anything else toward creating the abnormal person. We must face the liquor problem. I say it not as a prohibitionist, but as a student of crime."

PRACTICAL SALOON SUBSTITUTE.

The Illinois Steel company started a campaign against drinking among their employees in their South Chicago mills a short time ago. The saloonkeepers, by the way of retaliation, established elaborate free lunches and advertised the fact. They posted signs which told of the bad effects cold lunches have on digestive organs. Over the doorways of saloons pictures of large steaming bowls of soup were painted. One sign read: "Don't come in to drink; come in to eat."

The steel company came back with the establishment of a restaurant in the plant with the following menu:

Bowl of Soup 2c
Roast Beef and Potatoes 5c
Tomato 1c Beans 2c
Pie 1c Coffee 2c Ice Cream 2c

ALBERTA DRY.

Alberta, Canada, is the first dominion province to abolish the saloon by direct vote of the people. It voted dry July 21 by 20,000 majority, the law to go into effect July 1, 1916. This great newly white territory comprises 260,000 square miles, an area larger than the combined states of Oregon, Washington and Idaho.

A factor of great influence in the victory was the indorsement of the prohibition measure by the medical men of Calgary who thus placed themselves in the front rank of efficient and up-to-date physicians who are everywhere declaring the evil effects of alcoholic beverages.

HAD SIGNED THE PLEDGE.

The artist was painting—sunset, red, with blue streaks and green dots. The old rustic, at a respectful distance, was watching.

"Ah," said the artist, looking up suddenly, "perhaps to you, too, nature has opened her sky-pictures page by page? Have you seen the lambent flame of dawn leaping across the livid east; the red-stained, sulfurous islets floating in the lake of fire in the west; the ragged clouds at midnight, black as a raven's wing, blotting out the shuddering moon?"

"No," replied the rustic, shortly; "not since I signed the pledge."

WILL STAY IN JAIL.

With tears in his eyes Charles Boyer, sixty-three years old and a prisoner in the Multnomah county jail, Oregon, pleaded with county officials that he might be kept in the jail until the state goes dry on January 1, 1916. "Every time I get near booze," explained Mr. Boyer, "I get drunk. Every time I get drunk I hire a rig and go for a ride. Every time I go for a ride I forget to bring the horse back to the stable." "We will keep you in jail until January 10," the judge assured the prisoner, when he heard the plea. "The state ought to be good and dry by that time."

GOVERNMENT FIGURES.

According to statistics made public by the treasury department, internal revenue collections on spirits are decreasing about $1,250,000 a month, and this despite the emergency "war tax" levied on wines by the last congress.

That there has been marked decrease in the amount of distilled spirits consumed in the United States the past year is shown by the following figures: From July 1, 1913, to May 1, 1914, the taxes were $135,518,495. From July, 1914, to May 1, 1915, they were $121,804,705—a decrease during the ten months of $13,713,790.

CONDITIONS IN VERMONT.

When Vermont first went back to license, in 1903, 90 cities and towns voted that way. This year there were but 17, and two of these (Burlington and Rutland), the only ones of any importance which remained wet, stayed so by but from 25 down to 12 majority. Its return to prohibition by popular vote on March 7, 1916, seems assured.

ABOUT BEER.

Beer is more prolific in producing certain organic diseases of the liver and kidneys perhaps than any other form of alcohol. The end of the beer drinker is often a "hob-nailed" cirrhosis of the liver or Bright's disease. Its food value is hardly worth mentioning.—William Edgar Darnall, M. D., F. A. C. S., Atlantic City, N. J.

TOTAL ABSTINENCE.

About a million railroad men in this country have to be total abstainers from all intoxicating liquors.

Outrageously Funny.

"I'll never again invite that professional humorist to dinner," exclaimed Mrs. Newlyriche. "Why, he made our English butler laugh."—Philadelphia Ledger.

Deserved Tribute.

"You see, we have done everything possible to preserve the Plymouth Rock." "And I don't blame ye. New England owes a heap to that breed of hen."

Such Is Frail Humanity.

"Many a man," said Uncle Eben, "dat kin hesitate or tango for miles while de music is goin' couldn't be persuaded to walk two blocks to de grocery store."

How It Sounded

Better Security for Your Papers

A tin box, a desk or bureau drawer or an iron safe may keep your papers in ordinary security, but they offer scant protection against destruction or evil agencies. Your papers demand the quality of absolute protection which you can secure in our Safe Deposit Vaults—at cost of less than four cents a week. These boxes are of the most modern type, fitted with special locks and particularly designed for the convenience of patrons.

Each private box has two different keys—both of them must be used to open it—one of them you keep, and the other is held by the bank.

At the dedication of the new bank building, one of the main objects of interest was the magnificent vault, the construction of which is of reinforced concrete type, the walls of the vault being built up of close net work of heavy steel bars, embedded in rock-like cement. A special precaution was taken that the vault should be entirely surrounded by light space, so that there could be no tampering with the walls, roof or foundation without immediate detection.

The main door is of the most modern type of Harveyized nickel steel, dovetailed, wedged and keyed, and ground gas-proof like a great valve.

This nine-ton door is operated by a four-movement time lock in addition to a double combination lock, so as to overcome any possible automatic opening. The walls, floors and ceilings are lined with heavy steel plates, making the vaults proof against fire, moisture or burglary. The vaults are also equipped with an independent electric burglar alarm system, connecting with several public places.

Wouldn't you like to have a safety deposit box in which to keep your valuables and private papers? Come or phone soon—they are going rapidly.

HIS LONG "PULL"

By H. M. EGBERT.

Nobody knew why Hawkins, the factory clerk, was a permanency with the Copperplate & Tin company, but it was vaguely surmised that he had some sort of a "pull" there. Hawkins was an embittered man; it was said that he had been the inventor of the copperplate process, and that old Green, the millionaire bachelor who owned the factory and spent his life abroad, had jockeyed him out of it and given him a life job at a hundred a month in partial amends. But Green had not been in the factory for years. The works had automatically continued under the charge of the experienced men who operated them, and Green was satisfied to draw his hundred thousand annual profits and leave the operations alone.

The only change made within the past seven years had been the arrival of the new superintendent, Blair, and the vacancy which he filled had been caused by the death of his predecessor.

Times were comparatively hard, and old Hawkins was certainly valueless to the firm. Blair spoke to Adkin, his assistant.

"Say, what sort of a pull has that old duffer?" he asked. "What's this I hear about his being a friend of Mr. Green? I have had no instructions about him."

"Why—he's a sort of fixture," said Adkin. "A friend of the old man's once, I believe. Everybody knows that he's not to be fired."

"Well, I'm going to call that bluff," said Blair. "Out he goes at the end of the month. Besides, even if the bluff's true, I guess Mr. Green has forgotten him, and by the last reports he isn't well enough to care. Poor old chap, they say he can't live more than a few months."

This referred to Green, not to Hawkins. Hawkins was fifty, and hale and hearty, one of those lean men who wither up rather than die, and then not till they are advanced in years. Nobody ever spoke to Hawkins, because his "grouch" was a permanent one. At least, he did have one friend—little Miss Smith, in the bookkeeping department; but by a

Nobody ever spoke to Hawkins, because his "grouch" was a permanent one. At least, he did have one friend—little Miss Smith, in the bookkeeping department; but by a he found a letter waiting for him which he read with amazement. Then he staggered up the stairs to his little bedroom in the cheap rooming-house, which he had occupied for years. He spent that night in sleepless planning. But in the morning he was as cool as ever.

That morning there was a curious expectancy about the office. Hawkins, absorbed in his useless routine work, did not heed the remarks that passed until one of the factory men touched him on the arm.

"Well?" snarled Hawkins, spinning round on his stool.

"You haven't heard the news, have you, Mr. Hawkins?"

"What news?" demanded Hawkins.

"Why, old man Green's died in Paris, that's all, except that we're all expecting to lose our jobs," answered the man.

Hawkins stared at him and then went on with his work.

For the first time in years Miss Smith addressed him as he was passing through the business office on his way to lunch.

"O, Mr. Hawkins, isn't it terrible!" she said. "Mr. Green is dead and—I'm afraid I'm going to lose my position."

The poor little woman was all in a flutter. It was well known that Blair wanted to reduce the superfluous staff; he was a man without pity, and the older members would be the first to go.

"Miss Smith!" called out an office boy. "Mr. Blair wants to see you."

Little Miss Smith hurried into the superintendent's office, and Hawkins waited beside her desk. Everybody knew the meaning of the summons. When she came back she was wiping her eyes.

"Good-bye, Mr. Hawkins," she said, extending her hand. "You know what has happened. I—I—"

"Wait a minute, Miss Smith," said Hawkins. "I want you to lunch with me at Fry's. Will you?"

There was something so urgent in his tone that Miss Smith forgot to be alarmed. She glanced round nervously. Nobody had overheard.

"All right," she whispered, and, gathering up her things, slipped out of the building. Hawkins was waiting.

"Mr. Hawkins," called the boy contemptuously.

Hawkins went over to Blair's desk.

"Mr. Hawkins," said Blair, "I may as well come to the point without any preliminaries. You have probably heard that Mr. Green has died in Paris. We do not know who the heirs will be, but meanwhile it is up to us to curtail a lot of unnecessary expenditure, chiefly in the matter of help, in which Mr. Green involved the firm. Times are bad, and the useless members of the force must go. You can get your salary for the month at the cashier's desk."

Hawkins stood smiling at Blair. The hour of his triumph had come.

"I see—nothing to laugh at, Mr. Hawkins," said the superintendent angrily. "Thought you had some sort of pull here perhaps, didn't you?"

"I did and I do," said Hawkins, pulling a letter out of his pocket. "Read that."

Blair snatched up the letter and began reading impatiently. As he read, however, the expression on his face changed, first to alarm and then to terror.

"My dear Hawkins," he read, "I am writing this on my sick bed, and it is the last letter that I expect to write in this life. Eighteen years ago I stole your peripatetic process from you. I had no claim whatever, but you had asked me to capitalize my invention, and I, seeing its commercial value, promptly patented it—which you had neglected to do in the proper manner. You threatened a lawsuit. I offered you a life position at one hundred dollars a month as a compromise. I would have given you five hundred and signed a compact, but when you accepted the offer as it was made I took you at your word."

"Now, that I am dying, I wish to ask your forgiveness, and, to make the restitution complete, let me say that I am making you my sole heir in the matter of the company, my will having been drawn to that effect, according to the copy which I am now sending you."

"Well, Mr. Blair, have you anything to add to your statement?" inquired old Hawkins blandly.

"Well, Mr. Hawkins," Blair began, looking to his assistant for support, "of course, this alters the circumstances considerably. It is rather for you to say what you are going to do with the company."

"And with us," said Adkin bluntly. "I tell you what I am going to do," said Hawkins quietly. "I am going to ask you fellows—I mean gentlemen—to continue to hold your posts on the following conditions: A twenty per cent. increase in salary for every member of this firm, including yourselves, down to the office boys. That comes first. Second, there will be no discharges, now or in future, without application to me, stating the reasons. Third, you will send my monthly check—of course, after the will is proved—to my Paris address."

"You are going to live in Paris?" inquired Blair with a curious smile.

"Why not?" demanded Hawkins.

"Well, you see, of course that would simplify matters a good deal so far as we are concerned, but—"

"O, it won't be permanent," said Hawkins. "In fact I'm just going over for a month with—I mean—see here, I'll write you from Fry's."

"Fry's?" inquired Adkin.

"Fry's," said Hawkins. "The old place—Fry's."

"Fry's?" inquired Adkin.

"Fry's," said Hawkins. "The old place—Fry's."

INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

(By E. O. SELLERS, Acting Director of the Sunday School Course, the Moody Bible Institute, Chicago.)

LESSON FOR NOVEMBER 7

JOASH REPAIRS THE TEMPLE.

LESSON TEXT—II Kings 12:1-15.
GOLDEN TEXT—God loveth a cheerful giver.—II Cor 9:7.

The time of this lesson was about 878 B. C., and it follows within a few years last Sunday's lesson. Inaugurated as king and instructed by a faithful priest, yet Joash discovered great lethargy on the part of the priestly class with regard to the house of God. He set himself to arouse great liberality and to repair the temple.

I. Lethargy, v. 4, 8. (1) Its cause. We should read in this connection II Chron. 24. From the two accounts and the previous history of the nation we conclude that the condition of the temple was due, (a) to the weak and frequently vicious characters of the rulers of the nation; (b) to the evil companions of both princes and priests and (c) to the cupidity of court and curate. (2) The result of this lethargy regarding God's cause was evidenced (a) upon the temple, and (b) upon the lives of the people of the kingdom. (3) The cure. Joash instituted great reforms in Judah and in these Jehoiaada the priest (v 2) had no small part. In this particular lesson the prince (v. 7) seems to lead the priest. Unfortunately the godly priest did not long survive the crowning of Joash and hence when he came under other influences he soon went back to the evil practices of his predecessors and his reign ended in an eclipse of evil (II Chron. 24:18-26).

In this lesson we have, however, a suggestion of what is needed to cure religious lethargy. (a) A vision of the real condition of affairs (v. 7; also II Chron. 24:7). Joash saw the resultant ruin of the temple after 15 years of misrule; he also saw the misconduct of the priests and did not hesitate to call them to account. 'Tis no easy task to undertake a reformation and restoration such as this; witness Moses, Luther, Wesley and Cary. These priests had aided him to gain his throne and doubtless had had a part in his boyhood training. Joash had inaugurated certain reforms before he began this task which suggests the second need of (b) persistence (see I Chron. 24:5, 6). Such work also demands (c) systematic effort and giving. Joash placed himself among Israel's best kings by undertaking the restoration of the temple and won a place alongside of Hezekiah and Josiah. Modern churches are not, strictly speaking, "a house of the Lord" such as the Jewish temple, yet the condition of many of our churches would indicate great indifference to the cause of the kingdom. Our bodies are indeed a "temple" I Cor. 3:16; 6:19 and both the body and church buildings alike should be kept in proper condition.

II. Liberality, vs. 9-15. The plan to have the priests gather funds for the repairs was Scriptural (Exod 25:2-8). God does not look upon the measure but upon the motive of our gifts (II Cor 8:12). The priests did not "hasten the matter" so the king took it into his own hands (v. 9). In this remission Jehoiaada, as the chief priest, is held accountable for all (v. 7).

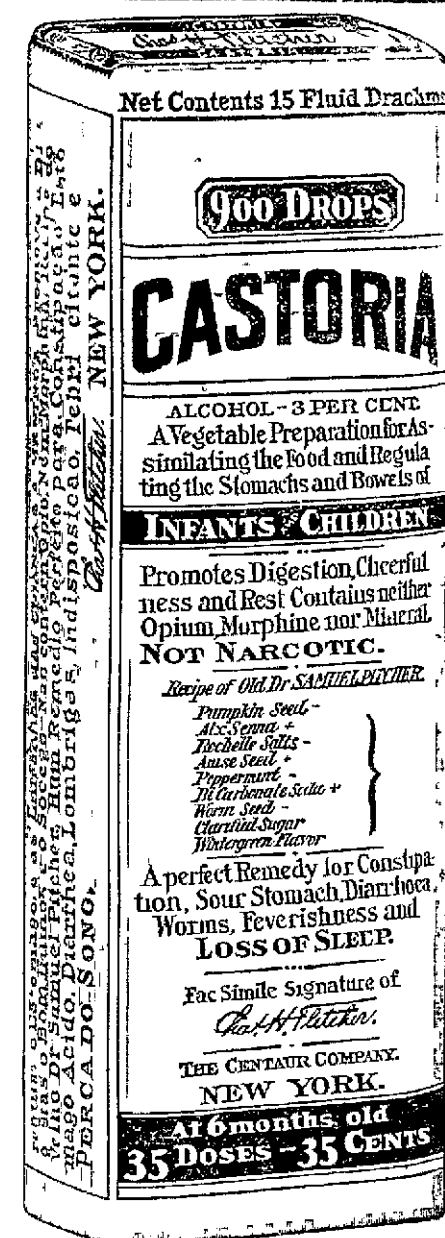

We have in this story a rich suggestion as to God's plan of Christian giving (1) The object. It was distinctly for the glory of God and not to outbid others or to wastefully use the money for selfish purposes (2) All were to participate voluntarily, out of their abundance (II Chron. 24:10), systematically and faithfully (3) The results were a house repaired (II Chron 24:12) beautiful (II Chron 24:13) with the worship restored (II Chron. 24:14). Joash seems to have laid great emphasis upon the "tabernacle of witness" (24:6) and we need to recall that each and every part of that temple was a testimony to the truth of God and had in it a spiritual suggestion and prophecy. As a whole, it suggested that God dwelt in the midst of his people. The sons of Athabiah (Joash's grandmother) had so conducted themselves as to cause it to need repairing (II Chron. 24:7). When we turn to II Chron 24:8-14 and read the record of the restoration of the temple, we discover: (1) Each had its part in the work. (2) Each did a "perfect" work, e. g., did his task faithfully, fully and to a finish. (3) Each did an orderly work, "in his state." None sought to supplant or defraud others in the work assigned. (4) Each did a strong work, it was "strengthened" and not a trifling work as men-pleasers or for the moment.

Try more prayer and like Joash, give the people a chance and there will be no lack.

Again, note that they dealt "faithfully." We need to exercise faithfulness in our relations to God and in the use of that which he intrusts to our stewardship.

Man and God alike will have confidence in us according to the method whereby we receive and expend money.

These funds were expended in a businesslike way (v 11, 12 II Chron 24:11) and this doubtless added much to the glory of the gift.

"There Is a House With a Bathroom"

was an expression at one time calculated to arouse interest, but now, conditions are entirely different. To build a house without a bathroom merely raises a question as to the good judgment of the builder. People know that he has either not considered or else misjudged the importance that an up-to-date bathroom has in increasing the value of the house, both as to renting and selling value.

What man would build a house for his own use and not put in a bathroom? Then the house equipped with modern fixtures will surely attract the best class of tenants or find the readiest sale.

For the finest plumbing equipment at a reasonable cost we recommend "Standard" plumbing fixtures and will be pleased to show you the many artistic designs in which they are made. Ask for illustrated booklet.

Bedford People Come Out as Frankly Here as Elsewhere.

Bedford people publicly recommend Doan's Kidney Pills. This paper is publishing Bedford cases from week to week. It is the same everywhere. Home testimony in home papers. Doan's are praised in thirty thousand signed statements, published in 3,000 communities. Bedford people are no exception. Here's a Bedford statement:

Miss Mary F. Wise, 147 Spring St., Bedford, says: "I suffered greatly from backaches and distressing pains through my kidneys. I couldn't stoop or lift anything without great pain and I also had severe headaches and dizzy spells. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured at Hecker's Kidney Drug Store, removed the backaches and pains in my kidneys and the headaches and dizzy spells left. The action of my kidneys also became regulated. I would be pleased to have you use my recommendation for Doan's Kidney Pills at any time you wish. I don't hesitate to say a good word for them to my friends."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Miss Wise had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv. Nov 5 '15
